

Can you create your own 'How many legs' problems?
You could combine different characters and find the total number of legs they would have altogether.

Or you could select a number and explore which combinations of characters would total that number of legs.